New York

- Take-home salary for single filers: $72,875
- Take-home salary for married filers: $79,633

New York is one of the least tax-friendly states in the U.S. — income, property and sales taxes are all high. State taxes in the Empire State is 5.21%.

Methodology: In order to find what a $100k salary really looks like in every state, GOBankingRates sourced both the federal and state tax brackets from the Tax Foundation's 2023 data. GOBankingRates used an in-house income tax calculator to find both the effective and marginal tax rate on income of $100,000 in every state. GOBankingRates also found the Federal Insurance Contributions Act tax with its rate sourced from the Social Security Administration. These calculations were done for a person filing their taxes as a single person and for a married couple filing jointly. GOBankingRates found the total income taxes paid, total tax burden, total take home pay, total gross bi-weekly paycheck, the after income tax bi-weekly paycheck for each state, and the total amount taken out of each bi-weekly paycheck due to taxes. All data was collected on and up to date as of February 24, 2023.

How Much Money Is Needed To Be Considered Middle Class in Every State?

Methodology: For this piece, GOBankingRates found every state's median household income as sourced from the 2022 American Community Survey as conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. Then, by following the Pew Research Center's definition of middle-class income — "two-thirds to double the income of an area" — we found the middle-class income for every state. All data was collected and is up to date as of May 23, 2024.
